MEETS AT NOON THE 2ND AND 4TH MONDAY OF EACH MONTH

On Higher Ground:

I have set before you life and death, blessings and curses. Choose life.

Deuteronomy 30:19

When a novitiate decides to become a monk, his street clothes are taken from him, hung in his closet, and replaced with a robe. Each new day presents him with a choice...to wear his robe and remain in the monastery or to put on his secular attire and return to the world.

Figuratively speaking, every morning presents us with a similar choice. We may decide to wear faith, hope, and love or to don the trappings of our secular environment.

When people see a monk dressed in the robe that symbolizes his commitment to God, the garment he wears is a witness to the choice he appearing more secular than sacred, that also provides a witness.

What do you intend to wear today??
